

New Lessons for Districtwide Reform

Dr. Karen Burke
Western Connecticut State University

Fullan, M., Bertani, A., & Quinn, J. (2004). New lessons for districtwide reform. Educational Leadership, 61(7), 42–46.

- ▶ The authors examined ten crucial components that will lead to success of large-scale systemic improvement.
- ▶ Select one component such as collective moral purpose, the right bus, capacity building, ongoing learning, productive conflict, etc.
- ▶ Reflect on how this ideal is related to curriculum change in international schools. Relate this to an experience that you had at your present school or another international school.
- ▶ Go to the comments page for today and add your thoughts...